

Students' Day Out

Bharathiya Vedic Krishi Parampara farm near Guduvancheri was the field trip destination for Std 8 students this year on October 7th , 2016

The positive atmosphere that pervades a farm is better experienced than described.

Away from the hustle & bustle of city life, the day was spent in noiseless and pollutionless surroundings. The students were welcomed with a traditional kumkumam on their forehead. They were briefed about the importance of Organic farming by Prof. M. V. Vishwanathan, a former CSIR Scientist, who works at the farm. He says traditional wisdom works.

Students were taught to worship the cow, "Gopooja" and were informed about its capacity to replenish and rejuvenate the land with its rich, fertilizing dung, nurture life on earth through the milk it yields and keep away pests at bay through the chemical formulation of its urine. Students observed some activities like weaving mats using palm leaves, making broom sticks and winnowing. They quenched their thirst with fresh lemon juice. The Parampara Vrindavan had many Tulsi trees with the idol of Lord Krishna amidst them. Students were given opportunity to sow seeds and were briefed about the agricultural practices they followed.

It was indeed a great pleasure in experiencing the Nature – revering and Eco – sensitive practices of the bygone times.

Students sowing seeds-hands on experience

Students being addressed by Parampara Staff

Students learn the importance of organic farming

IVY SCRIBES – Media Club

PSBB T. Nagar